

ShopEase Nepal

Refund Policy

Effective date: October 1, 2026

This policy explains when ShopEase Nepal issues refunds, which amounts are refundable, and how refunds are processed.

1. When a Refund Is Available

A refund may be issued when an approved return is received and accepted, an order is cancelled before dispatch, ShopEase cannot fulfill a paid order, or a product is confirmed to be defective, damaged, or incorrectly supplied.

The refund amount depends on the reason for the refund and the applicable return and shipping rules.

2. Refund Amount

For a confirmed wrong, defective, or damaged product, ShopEase normally refunds the product price and eligible original delivery charges.

For an eligible change-of-mind return, the product price is refundable after inspection, but the original shipping charge is normally non-refundable.

Any discount or voucher applied to an order may affect the refundable amount. Promotional vouchers are not converted into cash unless the promotion specifically allows it.

3. Refund Methods

Refunds are normally returned to the original payment method.

For cash-on-delivery orders, ShopEase may request verified bank or digital-wallet details before processing the refund.

ShopEase will not request a customer's password, PIN, or one-time authentication code to issue a refund.

4. Processing Time

After refund approval, ShopEase normally initiates the refund within 3 business days.

Bank or payment-provider processing may take an additional 3–10 business days depending on the payment method.

If the refund does not appear after the expected period, the customer should contact support with the order number and refund reference, if available.

5. Partial Refunds

A partial refund may be issued when only part of an order is returned, when a product has a verified minor defect that the customer agrees to keep, or when the returned product has reduced value because of customer-caused damage or missing components.

Any partial refund amount will be communicated to the customer before the refund is finalized when practicable.

6. Cancelled Orders

Orders cancelled before dispatch are eligible for a refund subject to payment-processing rules.

If an order has already been dispatched, the customer may need to follow the return procedure instead of the cancellation procedure.
